THOMAS FRAMPTON

Stephen F. Austin State University
Urban Forestry
Graduating, 2022

As a kid, Thomas Frampton set for himself some high goals as career choices: a NFL linebacker, a NBA forward, and a mathematician. A forestry career may not put him on a turf field or hardwood court but it does use mathematics and he will be in Mother Nature's green fields and hardwood forests! Thomas's interest in trees grew from working as part of a ground crew for an arborist in his hometown of Montgomery (TX). His love for the outdoors and nature was a deciding factor in choosing Urban Forestry as his field of study. One of his dreams is to visit every National Forest in North America before tackling Europe's collections of forests. Best wishes to future explorations, Thomas!
